the university this fall, our attorneys will continue to assist him if the state appeals," Wilkins said. "If the state does not appeal, he will be admitted."

A spokesman for the State of Mississippi said the ruling probably would be appealed to the U.S. Supreme Court.

Wilkins said that the precedent had been "clearly established" for such cases. He noted that the high court in 1950 ordered the admission of negro Heman Sweatt to the University of Texas.

Wilkins said that universities in Mississippi, South Carolina and Alabama are the only ones in the South which have not yet admitted Negroes.

IT MEANS "FORWARD"

Looming large in the automotive industry are Sherwood H. Egbert and Avanti, new entry in the pleasure field of driving. Egbert is president of Studebaker Corporation; Avanti, a safety-first minded speedster.

Special interest in the new car has been aroused by inclusion of such features as a built-in steel roll bar, safety padding and caliper disc brakes to complement its wedge-look body.

For the first time, Egbert said, these innovations have been combined for the benefit of the general public, although individually, they are well known to professional drivers.

To add a bit of raciness, the car is equipped with an aircraft-type cockpit and bucket seats. The car was conceived and sketched by Egbert, final design was completed by Raymond Loewy.

An Avanti which was honorary pace car at the Indianapolis 500 mile classic was presented to Rodger Ward, winner of the race. Said Ward: "This car has a lot of steam. The ride is real nice and it handles terrifically. . . . The roll bar and safety padding are the best. By the way, what does Avanti mean?"

It means forward, just like Rodger Ward, Egbert and Studebaker.

awaken the conscience of the world, to secure the banning of nuclear tests, the destruction of all weapons of mass slaughter, and the reduction of conventional armaments.

Africans, he said, wished to learn from both the capitalist and socialist systems, "but we are not prepared to be forced to say we belong irrevocably to either camp."

Disengagement from Africa by the great powers is essential to world peace, he said.

"All that I propose is that the great powers hold the ring and agree among themselves not to interfere in our affairs," Dr. Nkrumah said.

Insulation Sought

He said he would like to see Africa become not only a non-nuclear zone, but also a zone where no foreign military bases are allowed.

Dr. Nkrumah said that if some powers continued to give assistance to Portugal, "obviously and naturally those who are fighting Portuguese colonialism must ultimately be tempted to seek similar assurances from rival power blocs."

Dr. Nkrumah said that the fundamentally evil regime in South Africa could not endure for long, "but when it goes down in chaos and civil war the blood of many innocent men, women, and children will be on the heads of those who have so irresponsibly armed the oppressors of the African people."

Such exclusion, the complaint charges, denies Negroes the right "to participate in choosing governmental officials of the State of Georgia."

The desegregation action is based on the due process and equal protection clauses of the Fourteenth Amendment and the due process clause of the Fifth Amendment to the U. S. Constitution.

Monday's hearing did not involve that case, which is on appeal, or a pending contempt action against Lynd, that charges he failed to obey federal court orders not to discriminate.

Burke Marshall, assistant U. S. attorney general for civil rights, argued that the Civil Rights Act of 1960 gives the government the right to look at voter records upon presentation of a reason to see them.

He said Cox's action, although not a direct rejection of its action, has the same effect as a refusal to open the records.

Four attorneys for Lynd said that Judge Cox's action was merely a maneuver to clear his docket and hold the case over for consideration after the other case is decided.

But Judge John R. Brown of Houston, Tex., pointed out that Judge Cox used words such as "abandoned," "moot" and "non-existent" when he remanded the case to the files.

Attorneys for Lynd also contended that Judge Cox's ruling was not appealable, since it took no final decision either way. Marshall said it could be appealed since it constituted a rejection.

Marshall said the appeals court should reverse Judge Cox's decision and order him to open the voter records immediately.

Internationally known instructors, among whom will be Robert Fiance, are scheduled on the Institute's Faculty. Dr. Whickam is proud to announce two of the country's leading women as speakers: Dr. Deborah Wolf, Grand Basileus of Zeta Phi Beta, Speaker. From all indications the advance registrations to date are nearing the 2,000 mark with over 100 to prepare as graduates from the NBCL Educational Institute.

The Justice Department filed suit a week ago asking for an injunction to require the Greene County School Board to renew the teaching contract of Ernestine Denham Talbert.

The government asked for a temporary restraining order that would prevent the board from hiring anyone to take the teacher's place next year. The motion was rejected after it was noted that the board hired someone for the job two weeks before the litigation was started.
